WHO WE ARE

Castlegar in the Fall

Castlegar is a community shaped by water. Located where the Columbia and Kootenay rivers meet, and at the southern terminus of the Arrow Lakes system, our little city in the valley is defined by a flow that influences everything: our landscapes, our activities, and our stories.

Dive into Castlegar’s culture and you’ll find honest people who know how to make the most of living between rivers and mountains. It’s easy to fall into the rhythm of life here: it’s steady; it’s deep.

It’s real.

The outdoors are not a weekend escape here, they are part of everyday life. You will see anglers casting a line before work, families wandering the beaches at Millennium Park, and friends taking selfies beside the outdoor sculptures scattered around town. The adventures are easy to find, but the real magic is the feeling that nobody is trying too hard. People simply enjoy where they live.

Around here, a good day usually begins with a simple question. River or trail? Sit-down meal or coffee on the go? In-town park or mountain viewpoint just outside the city? And once the day winds down, it’s common to find people sharing a cold drink and swapping tales from the trail.

Spend a little time here and you will understand why so many visitors start thinking about staying. Castlegar has a quiet confidence that comes from being genuine. It is a place built on a strong work ethic and an even stronger sense of play. We balance wide open spaces with a tight-knit community. No fuss, no scene, just a valley full of real people who know that the best days are spent with good company doing things you love.

So go ahead and try something new. Cast a line. Hit the trails. Let the kids lead for a while.

Castlegar isn’t about checking boxes. It’s about finding your flow and seeing where it takes you.

REGIONAL AIRPORT

There are two provincial parks near Castlegar, many regional and municipal ones and, of course, the 56-acre Millennium Park that backs onto the Columbia River and is located right near the downtown core. Take the kids and frolic on the many beaches, enjoy the playground equipment, wander through forests and go skating or cross-country skiing. Here are three options to explore.

WALDIE ISLAND

The Waldie Environmental Reserve is located on an island in the Columbia River and is easily accessible from downtown. It boasts a mellow 1.5-kilometre-long self-interpretive hiking trail through a beautiful cottonwood forest and past a bird sanctuary lookout.

LOCATION: Pass over the Robson Bridge, turn south onto Old Mill Road and park at the trailhead.

PASS CREEK REGIONAL PARK

This 36-hectare park has everything from 30 camping sites, equestrian facilities, ball field, playground and a full service kitchen as well as a day-use area that can be booked for picnics and other family events.

LOCATION: The southern end of Broadwater Road.

MILLENNIUM PARK

One of the best attractions in Castlegar is Millennium Park located on the shores of the Columbia River. This is where children and adults alike spend afternoons and weekends swimming, biking, walking, building sand castles, enjoying picnics near the gardens and playing everything from soccer and tennis to beach volleyball.

LOCATION: 110 5th St.

KINSMAN WATER PARK

A summertime favourite for families looking to cool off and play, this colourful spray park features fountains, tipping buckets, and interactive water features that keep kids running, splashing, and laughing for hours. CULTURE & HERITAGE

Zuckerberg Island

Castlegar’s history dates back thousands of years to when the region was inhabited by the Lakes Salish First Nations people. In fact, where the Kootenay River meets the Columbia was an important trading place as well as a fishing spot. Fur traders arrived in the late 1700s and when gold was discovered a century later, the region started to see more development. In 1891 the first successful train journey occurred between Robson, near Castlegar, and Nelson and that same year Edward Mahon moved to the region from his home in Ireland and became a successful land baron. He eventually named Castlegar after his home town across the Atlantic. In the early 1900s, Castlegar became an important hub for farming as the Doukhobors, who had escaped persecution in Russia, bought up vast tracts of fertile soil. There are many sites throughout the city in which to learn more about our rich cultural heritage including the following locations that are managed by the Castlegar Heritage Society.

THE TRAIN STATION MUSEUM

Housed in a century-old station in downtown Castlegar, the railway museum accurately portrays what it would have looked like during the railway boom in the early 1900s. Visitors will find a station agent’s residence on the upper floor and a perfectly-preserved caboose – a relic of a time when crew members lounged in the last car of the train in between shifts.

ZUCKERBERG ISLAND AND HERITAGE PARK

Alexander Zuckerberg was a Russian-born artist, teacher and engineer who built a Chapel House in the style of Russian Orthodox country architecture on the island that came to bear his name. There are over 5.5 acres of wooded walking trails, picnic tables and rocky beaches to explore on the island as well as beautiful views of the confluence of the Columbia and Kootenay rivers.

DOUKHOBOR DISCOVERY CENTER

This is an amazing place to learn more about the culture that has so profoundly shaped what the city is today. You’ll find ten historic buildings on site and many displays that wonderfully recreate Doukhobor life in Castlegar in the early 20th Century. Be sure to check out the gift shop.

HIKING

Brilliant Overlook

Whether you prefer long strolls beside the river or high alpine treks, Castlegar has it all. Thanks to the hard work of such local organizations as the Castlegar Parks and Trails Society (CPTS) and the Kootenay Mountaineering Club, there are dozens of well-maintained hikes from casual strolls to multi-hour treks. According to CPTS past president Doug Clark the three best include the following.

DOVE HILL

Although short, this trail offers excellent views of the confluence of the Kootenay and Columbia rivers. The preferred variation is a 2.4-kilometre out-and-back from the power substation to the summit of Dove Hill and there's only 160 metres of elevation gain. Trailhead: 1602 Aaron Road, Ootischenia.

DISTANCE: 2.5 km | DIFFICULTY: Easy

COLUMBIA RIVER TRAIL

This beautiful, relatively flat hike follows the southern shore of the Columbia River that connects Castlegar to Trail. It's not a short one though: the entire trail stretches 25 kilometres one way, so it's recommended to do a car drop or hike only part of it. Trailhead: Columbia Road in Ootischenia.

DISTANCE: 25 km | DIFFICULTY: Easy but long

BRILLIANT OVERLOOK TRAIL

For supreme views of Castlegar, the Columbia River, Arrow Lakes, and Robson, this trail is the best. It takes about four hours round trip and involves 350 metres worth of elevation gain. Trailhead: The power substation at the end of McPhee FSR, Ootischenia.

DISTANCE: 6.5 km | DIFFICULTY: Intermediate but steep in sections

There are 17 other trails in Castlegar including Mel DeAnna, the Syringa Provincial Park loop and the Selkirk College loop, which are also favourites among trail runners. Visit destinationcastlegar.com for details of each.

Wildlife Watching

Located in a lush valley at the confluence of two major rivers, Castlegar is rich in wildlife habitat that provides ample opportunity to spot animals in their natural environment. There are large terrestrial fauna such as elk, bears, and mountain goats but also smaller, yet equally fascinating creatures to spy such as the Columbia ground squirrel, Red Fox, and the Western Tiger Swallowtail butterfly. Local birders have documented over 250 different species from Osprey and Bald Eagles to Blue Heron and Rufous hummingbirds. And in the local waters are White Sturgeon, which have existed since prehistoric times and can grow to be 10 feet long! Thankfully they're no danger to humans and Endless Adventures offers paddleboard tours to view them every spring.

CHECKOUT OUR WILDLIFE BROCHURE!

The goal of wildlife viewing is to safely appreciate the animals in their natural surroundings with minimal impact. To achieve that, here are eight tips:

- Be respectful. Getting too close or staying too long can disrupt feeding and other important behaviours and can cause stress and unpredictable behaviour.
- Give wildlife lots of space. If an animal responds to your presence (eg: looks up, watches you, moves away), you are too close.
- Viewing roadside wildlife can have negative impacts on wildlife by disrupting feeding and leading to habituation to traffic and people. If you spot wildlife while driving, pull over only if it is safe to do so and keep your stop short and sweet.
- Keep dogs on leash and under control at all times to avoid negative encounters.
- Carry bear spray and know how to use it.
- Use binoculars and zoom lenses.
- Never feed wildlife.
- Leave no trace. Pack it in, pack it out.

WHERE TO SEE WILDLIFE

SELKIRK COLLEGE HIKING TRAILS

The 15-kilometre-long trail network around the Selkirk College campus is one of the best places in all of the Kootenays to see water creatures and birds. In fact, 234 different species of birds have been recorded here in the last five years including owls, flycatchers, sparrows, wax-wing, grosbeak, and sapsuckers.

LOCATION: 301 Frank Biender Way.

SYRINGA CREEK PROVINCIAL PARK

Found on the shores of Lower Arrow Lake, Syringa Park is home to elk, mountain goats, bear, foxes, ground squirrels and other terrestrial animals. You'll also find beavers and other aquatic species as well as plenty of bird life from turkey vultures to pileated woodpeckers.

LOCATION: 5570 Broadwater Road.

MEL DEANNA TRAIL

This shaded three-kilometre hike loops around Champion Ponds and you'll see plenty of forest species as well as waterfowl such as the Barrow's Goldeneye, which has its breeding grounds in this area.

LOCATION: Take Hwy 3 south-east of Castlegar towards Salmo for about 5km and pull into the first parking area on the right.

ROCK CLIMBING

Kinnaird Bluffs

Castlegar is one of the best-kept secrets when it comes to rock climbing in British Columbia. Not only does it have one of the longest seasons in the province (March to November), it also boasts a dozen areas with over 300 routes that are all easy to access. Here are some of the best.

SELKIRK COLLEGE

Selkirk College has a bouldering gym where people can go if the weather is wet or if they're new to the sport. More details about all the rock climbing in Castlegar can be found at tawkroc.org, in the West Kootenay Rock Guide, and the West Kootenay Bouldering Guidebook at the Castlegar Visitors Centre.

KINNAIRD BLUFFS

People have been climbing on these bluffs since 1950 and there are now over 70 routes from easy trad ones to hard sport climbs to moderate, multi-pitch classics. The area is within city limits on 37th Street. Summit Mountain Guides offers guided experiences here for those new to rock climbing.

PUB WALL

This is the first of many walls located on Broadwater Road and it's also the only natural rock climbing wall in the backyard of a pub in Canada. You can do any one of the 11 routes here and then pop into the Lion's Head bar to quench your thirst.

WATERLINE WALLS

Developed in 2005, Waterline is now one of the most popular sport climbing areas in the Kootenays. There are over 60 routes on six different walls and the access is a five-minute walk off 14th Ave.

BIKING

Millennium Pump Track

Did you know the Captain Kangaroo trail in the Merry Creek area of Castlegar was rated the best on the planet a few years ago? PinkBike, one of the most popular mountain bike websites in the world, awarded it the top spot because of its structures, and flow. The accolade isn't that surprising given how hard Sarah Meunier, Dave Sutton and the rest of the Castlegar Parks and Trails Society have worked to build beautiful, artistic trails that are popular with locals and visitors alike. Here are three mountain bike zones to enjoy in the area no matter whether you're a novice or expert, according to Adam Pomery, co-owner of local bike shop Cycology.

CASTLEGAR BIKE PARK

If you're a beginner to mountain biking you'll be happy to know Castlegar boasts the largest bike park in the Kootenays with a mellow flow track, fun dirt jumps and a pump track. And because it's located in Millennium Park near downtown Castlegar, it's very easy to access.

LOCATION: In Millennium Park, 110 5th St. Size: 3 acres. | DIFFICULTY: Everything from easy to hard.

MERRY CREEK

There are 10 trails in this area including Captain Kangaroo, voted the best on the planet by PinkBike and users of Trailforks. There's also the Merry Go Round trail, which features the "Cliff Hanger," a 20-metre-long bridge that hangs off an 18-metre-high rock face over the forest floor. And that's just one of the many amazing trail structures you'll see in this area.

LOCATION: Merry Creek FSR off Hwy 3. | DIFFICULTY: Intermediate.

RIALTO ROAD

Boasting six trails, this area has everything from mellow ups to epic descents, including Grandliferium, an eight-kilometer test piece that features everything from A-frames and gap jumps to rock roll downs, bridges, drops and skinnies.

LOCATION: Rialto FSR off Broadwater Rd. | DIFFICULTY: Easy to expert.

ATVING/DIRTBIKING & MOTORCYCLE LOOPS

C&W Rail Trail

Castlegar's surrounding forests and mountains offer endless dirt bike and ATV adventures. Whether you prefer rugged backroads, purpose-built tracks, or scenic trails, the terrain around Castlegar is built for braaap.

THE C&W RAIL TRAIL

A converted rail line that runs from Castlegar to the community of Midway, the Columbia and Western Railway Trail is free to use and includes some exciting tunnels and bridges as well as incredible views of Lower Arrow Lake.

ROVER CREEK

The extensive singletrack system at Rover Creek is currently free. To access the trails, set your odometer to zero at the north end of the Brilliant Bridge just outside Castlegar. Follow Hwy 3A for 18.9 km and look for Blewett Road on your right. Follow Blewett Road for 3.5 km and look for a dirt road on your right just after crossing the Kootenay Canal bridge. Park in the wide area at the base.

KMX MOTOCROSS TRAILS

Located near the Bombi summit just southeast of Castlegar, this trail system includes a full MX track, a kids MX track and 23-kilometre hare scramble loop. To get there, follow Hwy 3 east up the Bombi Pass and about 5 km after the summit (where the power lines cross over) look for a runaway lane on your left. You want the first left after the runaway lane (look for the KMX sign). Once you make a left turn, follow the Beavervale FSR for about 1.5 km then turn right and follow the road through the gate. Membership rates apply.

If you prefer the feel of hugging tight asphalt corners on two wheels while zooming through mountainous terrain framed by beautiful turquoise lakes, consider these three motorcycle loops.

THE OLD GLORY LOOP

This two-hour ride follows Highway 3 west of Castlegar to the junction of Highway 3B where you'll find Nancy Greene Provincial Park, a great picnic spot. From there wind your way south on 3B and spy Old Glory Mountain, which rises 2,356 metres (7,795 feet) to the west. Eventually you'll come to the alpine town of Rosland and then down the hill is Trail. Highway 22 will lead you back to Castlegar.

THE BOMBI PASS

This loop can take two hours but you'll definitely want to dedicate more time. From Castlegar, drive Hwy 3 south over the Bombi Pass, enjoying the mountain views and evergreen forests before reaching the town of Salmo. Continue north to Ymir and Nelson before returning West on Hwy 3A past multiple hydroelectric dams.

THE SLOCAN VALLEY

This is the longest motorcycle day tour from Castlegar but it's also the best. Drive north on Hwy 3A to Hwy 6 and then follow the Slocan River North, enjoying views of Valhalla Provincial Park. At New Denver turn onto Hwy 31A which takes you to the village of Kaslo and then veer south past Ainsworth Hot Springs and Nelson, enjoying the final stretch of highway, which parallels the West Arm of Kootenay Lake back to Castlegar.

PADDLING

Syringa Park

From mellow floats on mountain lakes to exciting whitewater, Castlegar is an amazing paddling destination. People travel far and wide to surf Brilliant Wave in their whitewater kayak, cast a rod from their canoe, or paddleboard to the Labarthe cave across from Scotties Marina. Check in with them for information on kayak rentals and water levels. Below are three bodies of water where you can canoe, raft, paddleboard, kayak, and float. For more paddling itineraries in Castlegar, and info about the inaugural Paddle BC Awards, visit our partner paddlebc.ca.

ARROW LAKES

Immediately north-west of downtown Castlegar is the Arrow Lakes system, which is divided into South Arrow and North Arrow. Together they offer no less than 232 kilometres of flatwater paddling opportunity between Revelstoke and Castlegar and there are plenty of remote, sandy beaches on which to lounge or camp.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER

Running through the heart of Castlegar, the Columbia is one of the longest rivers in the Pacific Northwest and it offers plenty of fun paddling opportunities right in the city. An excellent spot to put in is Millennium Park, located five blocks from the downtown core where you'll find calm eddies and ponds that will lead you into the faster flows of the river.

SLOCAN RIVER

The Slocan River offers both chill vibes and thrilling rides. For those wanting to enjoy a mellow float via inflatable, the section of river between Slocan Park and Crescent Valley Beach is popular. If whitewater is more your thing, the river south of Crescent Valley offers Class III excitement that's especially fun in the Spring and early summer during freshet. Endless Adventure offers guided excursions.

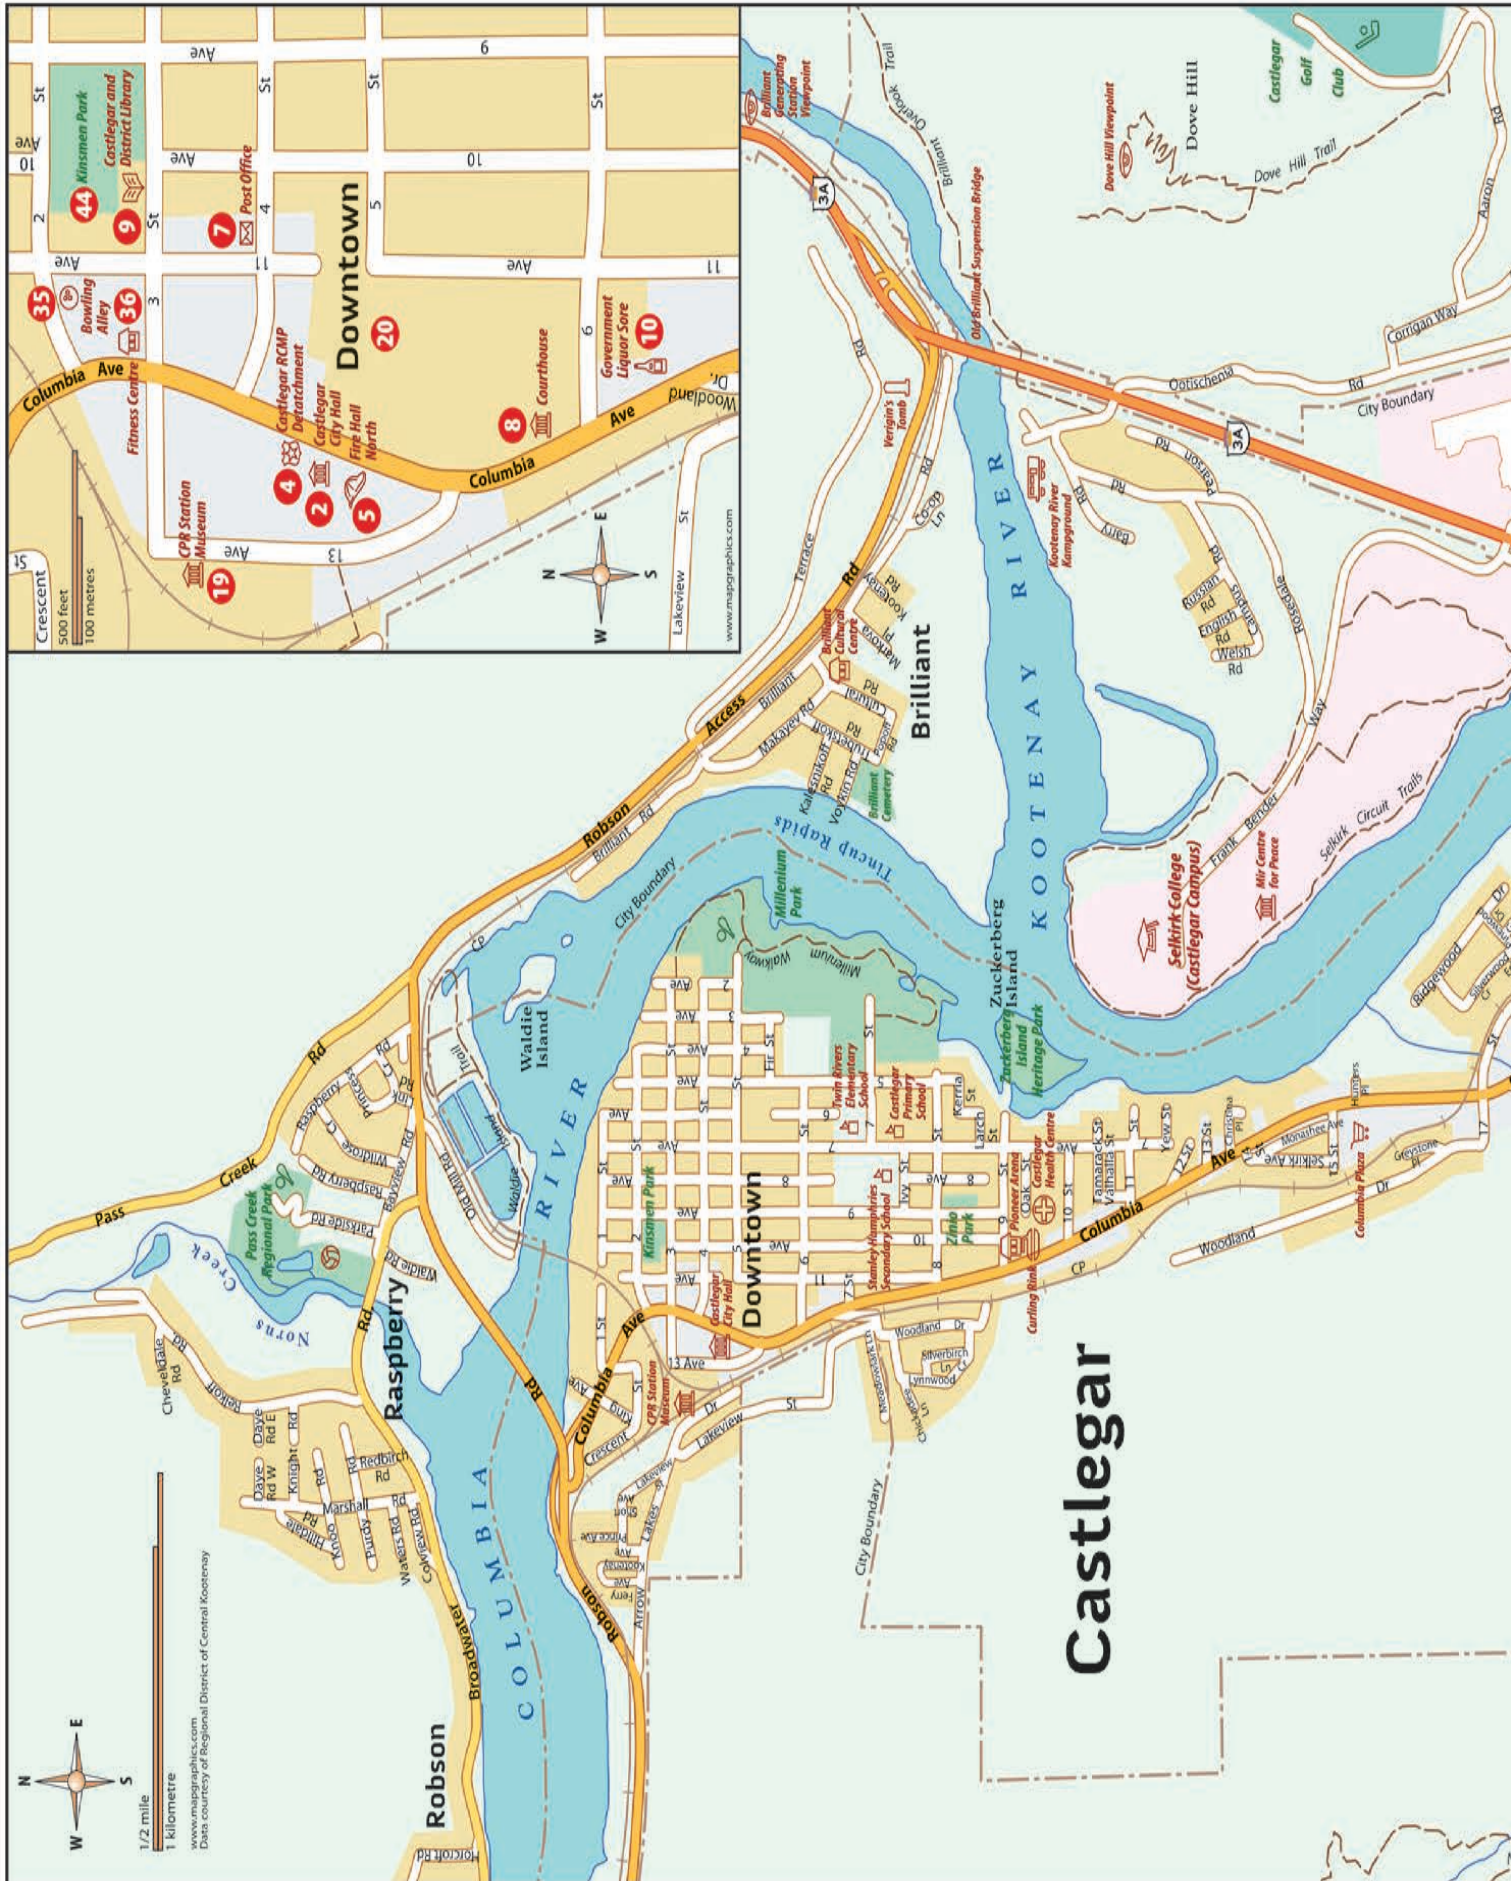

Other easy paddling spots include such mountain lakes as Nancy Green, which is located just west of Castlegar on Highway 3, and Champion Lakes, just south of the city. There's also the faster flowing Kootenay River, which joins the Columbia River right in the heart of Castlegar as well as innumerable mountain creeks for those kayakers who like their water spicy.

FISHING

Castlegar is a world-class freshwater fishing destination, but what really makes it memorable are the characters who ply these waters. Guides like Graham Cloutier of Chillbilly Sportfishing Charters have become part of the legend. He'll sometimes bring his pygmy "boat goat" named Green Eggs and Ham to ride shotgun on guided trips along the Columbia River! Whether you're fly fishing quiet mountain streams, casting from the riverbanks, or heading out with one of Castlegar's colourful guides, there are countless ways to hook into the region's angling culture. Each August the community doubles down on its fishing spirit during the annual Invasive Species Fishout Derby, where anglers compete to catch walleye and northern pike while helping protect native trout and kokanee populations. A boat helps reach hidden fishing holes, but it's not essential, because plenty of great casting opportunities can be found right from shore throughout Castlegar. Before embarking on a fishing excursion, remember to get a freshwater fishing license, which can be purchased at Canadian Tire or online at the BC Government's angling site, as well as check for any restrictions. Here are four fishing guides for hire in Castlegar:

- ▶ Chillbilly Sportfishing Charters
- ▶ All in Fishing Adventures
- ▶ Mountain Valley Sports Fishing & Tours
- ▶ Castlegar Sports Centre & Fly Shop Fly-Fishing Tours

WHERE TO FISH: Aside from the renowned Columbia River, other notable fishing spots near Castlegar include Nancy Green Lake, Champion Lakes, and the Kootenay River. There's also Lower Arrow Lake where the largest Kokanee salmon on earth was caught! If you're planning a do-it-yourself day of fishing, here are some recommended spots where the fish are known to bite.

KEENLEYSIDE DAM

As you approach the dam on Broadwater Road, you'll see a large, yellow fisherman's area sign. Follow the stairway to the water and there's a great spot there for lure casting.

MILLENNIUM PARK

There's excellent fishing access right in town on the shoreline of Millennium Park. Anglers have their favourite spots along the river banks here but there are plenty of eddies to choose from.

WALDIE ISLAND

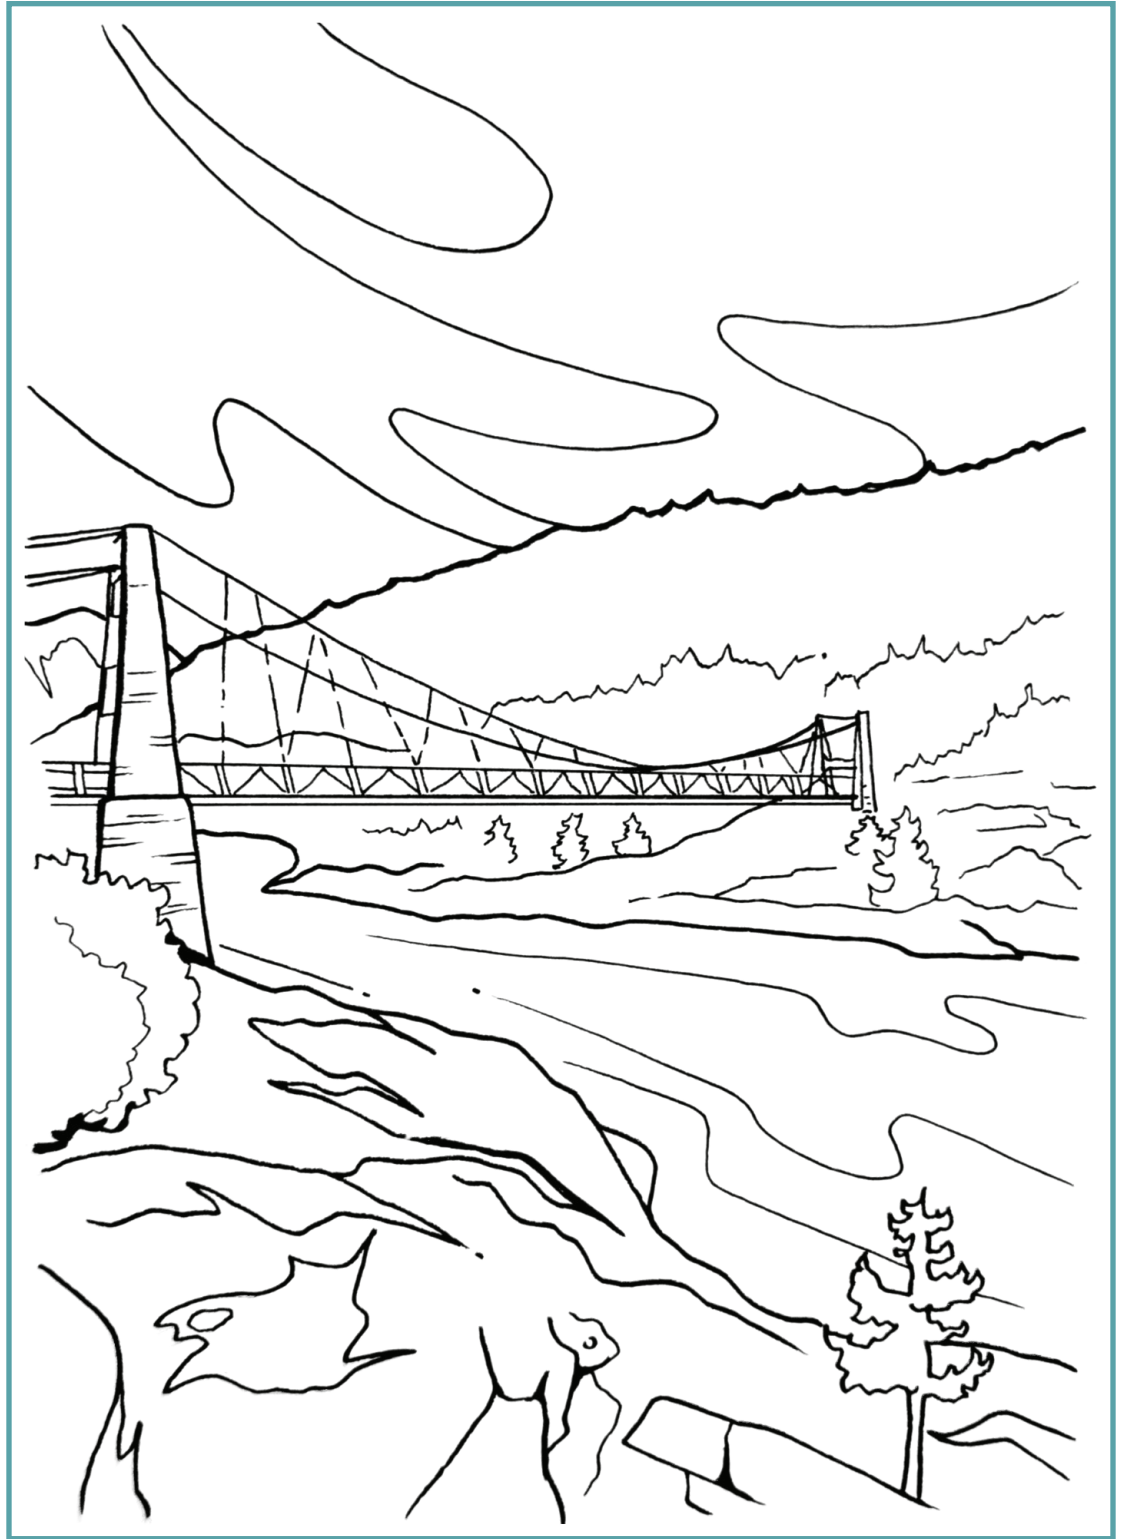

Just upstream from downtown, Waldie Island offers one of the most accessible and scenic fishing spots in Castlegar. The gravel bars and gentle side channels around the island create ideal habitat for trout and other species.

COLOUR YOUR ADVENTURE

This sketch captures one of Castlegar's most recognizable landmarks, the Brilliant Suspension Bridge. It was constructed in 1913 by the Doukhobors to span the Kootenay River and connect the industrial hub of Brilliant, where there was a successful jam factory, with village sites at Dolina Ootischenia. The bridge was declared a National Historic Site in 1995 and fully restored in 2010. This, and other landmarks around the city, are featured in a sketch kit by artist Shannon Clark of The Bohemian Sketch Company. Her kits can be purchased at the Castlegar Visitor Centre.

INDOOR

KOOTENAY GALLERY OF ART

With over a half century of history, the gallery has been enriching the cultural landscape of the region through a constantly changing roster of local, national and international exhibits, as well as through workshops and events. In addition, the gallery's gift shop provides visitors with an opportunity to take home works by talented local and regional artisans.

MOVIE THEATRES

There are two venues with a total of six theatres in Castlegar. The larger of the two is the Kootenay Centre Cinemas, conveniently located near the highway at 1940 6th Ave, and it offers five theatres in an intimate yet modern setting with just a touch of down-home hospitality. The other is called The Castle Theatre (or "The Old Theatre") and it's located downtown. Classic and new films are shown and great events are hosted in this beautiful, historic theatre.

BOWLING ALLEY

Just like the old days, the Castle Bowl bowling alley, located at 206 11th Ave is a fun place where family and friends can enjoy some great times. But there are some new twists here such as bumper bowling for the little ones that keeps the ball out of the gutter. There's also music and lights to rock the night away during Cosmic Bowling on the weekends as well as a great licensed lounge.

THE CASTLEGAR AND DISTRICT COMMUNITY COMPLEX

The locals call it the "Rec Centre" and it boasts everything from a 25-metre-long indoor swimming pool to an indoor NHL-sized skating rink where public skating, shinny hockey, and Castlegar Rebels Junior B games are held. There are also banquet and meeting rooms, a commercial kitchen, fitness centre with weight room and cardio area, senior's centre with pool tables and darts, and a steam room and hot tub.

Murals

In the past five years over a dozen murals have appeared on the sides of buildings in Castlegar and it makes for a fun afternoon outing to see them all. Many were created by local artist Matt Hillman (aka Matty Kakes) including the first air-purifying mural in Canada, located on the side of the ARC Youth Programs building at 625 Columbia Ave. That particular piece was painted using Airlite, a new form of paint that has anti-bacterial, anti-viral, and anti-mould properties. It also acts as an air purifier by using sunlight to activate a process called photocatalysis, a chemical reaction caused by light.

LOCAL Artists

Castlegar is the home to a vast array of talented artists who work in every medium, from visual arts to music to tactile installation pieces. Below is a short list, but you'll find the creations of many more in the Kootenay Art Gallery, Sculpture Walk, and at various retailers, festivals, and music venues throughout the city.

YANIVE FIENER
PHOTOGRAPHER & MUSICIAN

Yanive Feiner is a renaissance man of sorts: he's been a music teacher for over 20 years; his photography is being used by various businesses and associations around the West Kootenay region; and he's written one of the anthems being used by the Trail Smoke Eaters hockey team.

JOSH FOGAL
PHOTOGRAPHER

Born and raised in Castlegar, Josh Fogal says he was always inspired by the local animals and scenery to pick up a camera and he finally did so when he got the opportunity to be a wildlife guide after graduation. He's since photographed around British Columbia, Japan, and other parts of Asia.

WILLOW ENEWOLD
METAL ARTIST

Willow Enewold made a mid-life career change few others would be brave enough to do: she left the day-to-day office work of her successful accounting practice for "the hammering, the noise, the filth, the machines and the tools" of metal artistry. She now runs Skylark Metal.

DANIEL NELSON
FURNITURE DESIGNER

Former professional skateboarder Daniel Nelson moved to Pass Creek, near Castlegar, in 2012 and now runs Driftwood Works where he creates unique, hand-crafted furniture and artistic creations such as skateboards and guitars from found wood and colourful epoxy.

THE ADITS PUNK MUSICIANS

The Adits are a three-piece band made up of Kirk on guitar, Dave on bass, and Andy on drums. They've been busy these days playing gigs around the Kootenays and distributing their album "Mangled in the Mine." Oh, and they're also helping keep the punk spirit alive and well in Castlegar.

KATE AND JERRY ENEWOLD ARTISTIC COUPLE

Kate and Jerry Enewold are a royal couple when it comes to the Castlegar arts scene, having been deeply entrenched in it for over half a century. They have specialized in a multitude of media from painting and silversmithing to furniture design and woodworking.

STEVE MARC GOSSELIN MUSICIAN

Steve Marc is a man and a band. The Castlegar-based musician has been playing and touring for over three decades. His new band, also named Steve Marc, has been playing dates around the Kootenays and showcasing their album called "Be The World." You can find Steve regularly playing open mic nights around the city.

JAMIE ISAACS PHOTOGRAPHER

Jamie Isaacs grew up in the West Kootenay region and has been photographing wildlife and landscapes since around the time she moved to Krestova, just north of Castlegar, in 2009. She says she finds the mountains and beaches surrounding her home grounding and photography allows her to connect with our world in a special way.

BEACHES

Shore Acres Beach

Given that Castlegar is located at the confluence of two major rivers as well as the southern terminus of the Arrow Lakes system, there are no shortages of beaches to enjoy. From perfectly smooth sand to rocky shores that are fun to explore, you'll find everything you're looking for in water-side fun.

MILLENNIUM PARK

Located near downtown, this is the largest park in Castlegar and it has beautiful, sandy beaches on the shores of the Columbia River. It's a perfect spot for families with small children because the natural swimming ponds are shallow.

LOCATION: 110 5th Street.

SYRINGA CREEK PROVINCIAL PARK

Found on the shores of Lower Arrow Lake, Syringa Park has multiple beaches and is a great spot for an afternoon picnic or an easy overnight camping trip. Enjoy swimming, paddling, hiking, bouldering and much more at this natural oasis located a 20-minute drive from downtown.

LOCATION: 5570 Broadwater Road.

SHORE ACRES

The community of Shore Acres is located a short drive north on Highway 3A from Castlegar. There you'll find a beautiful beach where the Slokan River enters the Kootenay. In the summer it's a peaceful spot but during Spring runoff there are fun rapids nearby that are a favourite with local paddlers.

LOCATION: Twenty kilometres north on Highway 3A, just past the bridge.

NANCY GREENE PROVINCIAL PARK

Located on Highway 3 about 30 kilometres west of Castlegar, this park has a beautiful sandy beach with shaded spots, picnic tables, and a nearby creek to keep things fresh. It's a family-friendly destination that has a small area on the beach for dogs as well. There are also many walking trails in the park and a campsite with 10 spots to accommodate drive-in traffic and one walk-in camp spot.

WINTER ACTIVITIES

SKIING

Paulson Pass

It's not every city that can boast it is located equidistant from two of the best downhill ski resorts in North America. But Castlegar can proudly exclaim it is truly at the centre of it all when it comes to world-class alpine skiing because both Red Mountain Resort and Whitewater Ski Resort are an easy 40-minute drive away. Plus, there's the small Salmo community ski hill within a half hour drive and excellent nordic ski trails just east of the city.

PAULSON CROSS-COUNTRY TRAILS

Maintained by the Castlegar Nordic Ski Club, this area offers more than 60 kilometres of interconnected trails, the majority of which are groomed and maintained for both classic and skate skiing. They include easy, moderate and more challenging trails that boast multiple shelters and warming huts. And because it's located at an elevation of 1,300 metres, it offers the longest season for nordic skiers in the region.

RED MOUNTAIN RESORT

Located south of Castlegar, Red Mountain is one of B.C.'s most storied ski destinations known for its legendary powder and uncrowded slopes. The resort offers more than 3,800 acres of lift-accessed terrain spread across several peaks that feature a mix of groomed runs, gladed tree skiing, expansive alpine bowls, and night-skiing runs.

WHITewater SKI RESORT

Renowned for its snow, terrain, and laid-back mountain atmosphere, Whitewater Ski Resort is located northeast of Castlegar at the foot of Ymir Peak. It has 1,100 acres of lift-accessed terrain and is widely celebrated as one of British Columbia's premier powder skiing destinations.

SALMO SKI HILL

Located southeast of Castlegar, the Salmo Ski Hill is a small, community-run mountain known for its affordable lift tickets and family-friendly slopes. It features a T-bar lift serving a variety of groomed runs that are ideal for beginners and intermediate skiers. It also offers night skiing at certain times of the week.

SLEDDING

Norns Range

Snowmobiling is one of the most popular winter activities in Castlegar because upwards of 12 metres (40 feet) of snow can fall in the mountains surrounding the city, meaning at higher elevations the season is very long. Plus there's plenty of terrain to choose from. Many logging roads and trails can be accessed in the area but the two most popular spots for snowmobiling are maintained by the Castlegar Snowmobile Association (CSA). You'll find over 70 kilometres of groomed trails at these locations plus three cabins with free firewood and barbecues on hand. In exchange for these services, the CSA charges $120 for a seasonal membership or $15 for a single-day trail pass.

BOMBI PASS

This is a popular spot with snowmobilers because it's easy to access and there aren't any fees involved. The common staging area is at the 1,214-metre Bombi Summit just off the highway where the power lines cross the road. There are plenty of service roads in this area so you can choose your own adventure.

ACCESS: From Castlegar follow Hwy 3 east from the city for 17 kilometres and park at the staging area.

GOOSE CREEK

The trails here are maintained by the CSA and they follow safe terrain into the alpine past two warming huts. One has beds and can be booked for overnight excursions.

ACCESS: From Castlegar, cross the Robson Bridge and turn north onto Pass Creek Road. Follow this for 15 kilometres and turn west onto Goose Creek Road. Follow this to the parking area and trailhead.

LADY BIRD & NORNS

Both of these areas are best for advanced riders, especially Norns as its access trail isn't groomed and it passes through an avalanche path on its way into the alpine. That said, it leads to some of the best backcountry adventures in the region. The Lady Bird Cabin is in the zone and is excellent for mid-day warming.

ACCESS: Drive Pass Creek Road for 19 kilometres and turn west onto Lady Bird Road. Follow this to the parking area and trailhead. From here there's one groomed trail that takes you to a definitive junction where you can turn left to reach Norns or right to get into the Lady Bird area.
